

My younger brothers have kept their interests in cars, both racing and both work at repairing other people's vehicles, as well keeping their respective families at the top of their priorities. But I'll let them tell their stories on their own pages.

My interests, also keeping family at the top, include computers and for the last several years, tracing our family history. I regret not spending more time with the grandparents and great-grandparents, as I am sure we all do, not realizing that one day that they will no longer be here among us, to share the stories of relatives we know and of those we never had the chance to meet.
